Node models

Node models contain models that are used to classify and describe nodes. There are two types: node types that deal with the abstract modelling information, and hardware models, that deal with information about the physical hardware.

Node types

Main article Node types

Hardware

Main article Hardware

From:
https://wiki.netyce.com/ - Technical documentation

Permanent link:
https://wiki.netyce.com/doku.php?id=menu:design:node_models:node_models

Last update: 2024/07/03 12:31